

ABSTRACTMethod And System For Content Authoring

- 5 Authoring a document to be served for rendering on a plurality of classes of device comprises defining at least two choices of content which may be styled for a first content portion of the document, defining at least two choices of content which may be styled for a second content portion of the document, and labelling the choices of content to indicate approved 10 combinations of content for the first content portion with content for the second content portion.

(Figure 7)